James Hetfield didn't really need to ask.

"Halifax, are you with us? Metallica is with you."

Thousands gathered on the Garrison Grounds Thursday night to hear the rock legends rock the hill. Rainy skies began to clear at about 8 p.m. The last opening act, New York's Coheed and Cambria, did an admirable high-energy job. But after their set, when Clint Eastwood appeared on three giant screens behind the stage and a Western tune filled the air, the crowd erupted.

Many seemed puzzled by the first song — Creeping Death, from 1984's Ride the Lightning — but it didn't dampen their enthusiasm. Most had been standing in the rain and mud for hours. And Metallica did not disappoint.

"Rain, no rain. Sun, no sun. We create our own," shouted Hetfield, the frontman, with every word eliciting cheers.

From there it was all pyrotechnics and crowd-pleasers. The band launched into For Whom the Bell Tolls, and the crowd recognized it immediately, throwing up the horns and banging their fists along to the beat.

"I hope you like the old ones," Hetfield said with a smile.

The crowd certainly let him know their preference, as the band then launched into the title track from Ride the Lightning.

Shanghai family discovers the beauty of good advice on Atlantic shore

While an eye for beauty is similar around the world, banking methods are very different in a new country, according to Quanhong Chen, who brought his family to Canada in 2009.

Drawn to Atlantic Canada's peaceful beauty, Mr. Chen and his wife Li – successful beauty professionals from Shanghai – soon realized the challenges of settling in a foreign land. Fortunately, they found solid financial advice, in their native language, to unveil their goal of homeownership by the sea.

By chance, during a tour of Halifax, the family's creative spirit was ignited when they stumbled upon a house that matched Mr. Chen's aesthetic ideal. "I always dreamed of a home with a view of water, trees and flowers," he recalls, describing the six-bedroom home on Bedford Basin that bore no comparison to their cramped Shanghai apartment.

But beauty seemed fleeting when their bank offered them unattractive mortgage terms due to their short Canadian credit history. On the suggestion of a friend, they visited Scotiabank where they were greeted by a Mandarin-speaking personal banking officer who explained all the details of home-buying in Canada.

"This was our first mortgage ever and we didn't know anything about the real estate market," says Mr. Chen. He notes that the Scotiabanker took the time to carefully explain the various mortgage options.

In fact, Scotiabank has earned considerable praise from immigrants for offering tailored services such as the Scotiabank StartRight[®] Program¹ for Newcomers, which includes a free day-to-day bank account for one year², a wide range of VISA[®] card options³ and a number of other customized services and benefits.

A year after moving into their seaside home, the Chens are very happy with the service they received from Scotiabank, and Mr. Chen also appreciates the good advice he received in his native tongue, "It was so important to have a banker from our own culture who could give suitable advice. A mortgage is a very serious decision and it's hard to talk about this topic in a new language."

Mr. Chen also advises other newcomers to seek quality counsel from a banker who understands their concerns, including the need for credit upon arrival to help cover high settlement costs.

Now the Chen family is busy, both enjoying and enhancing the local beauty, as operators of the Cantrust Salon in Clayton Park, Halifax. "While business and banking are different here, beauty is the same – we love the friendly people, and we feel positive about our future."

THIS ADVERTORIAL IS PREPARED BY SCOTIABANK.

With good advice from Scotiabank, Quanhong Chen is enjoying Canada's natural beauty.

Premier defends deputy's expenses

Premier Darrell Dexter is defending flight and taxi expenses of more than $18,000 billed by his deputy in the past seven months.

Online reports filed by members of the legislature show that deputy premier Frank Corbett billed $15,100 for Air Canada flights and $2,874 for taxis between the airport and his home in New Waterford.

The bills covered a period from last December to June and cover travel between Halifax and his Cape Breton riding.

Corbett also spent about $250 on changed and cancelled flights, the records show.

Dexter said Corbett often works 10-hour days, and he doesn't expect the cabinet minister to drive five hours back to his home after such long days. The premier said he'd rather see Corbett spend that time reading briefing notes on the plane while travelling home.

"It would be a disservice to the province and certainly a disservice to Mr. Corbett if he were to waste his time driving back and forth," said Dexter.

The records show that during that same time span, other members of the legislature drove between Halifax and their constituencies in Cape Breton.

New gadgets for politicians?

► Move to acquire 40 iPads not a snub at RIM: Dexter ► Government will consider incorporating new RIM tablet into operations as well

ALEX BOULIER
@METRONEWS.CA

In a bid to cut down on paper and costs, the province is considering buying 40 iPads for senior bureaucrats and politicians.

A tender for an initial purchase of 40 iPads was posted to the government's website on Tuesday. The request is for the 64 GB model of Apple's newest tablet, which retail for about $850 a pop.

Speaking to reporters on Thursday, Premier Darrell Dexter said the tender was just that — a tender — not a final decision to purchase the high-tech devices.

"Being put on that list is no guarantee that you will receive any particular contract," he said. "It simply $34K Off the shelf price tag for 40 iPad 2s (64 GB model with Wi-Fi and 3G coverage).

says that you meet the technical specifications for the province."

He also was adamant the move is not a snub of Research in Motion, which will unveil its own tablet — partially developed in Bedford — this month.

"That's not what's happening. What's happening is that one technology is being added to the standard contract list," Dexter said. "(RIM's) Playbooks will be added as well ... in July."

Dexter pointed out that provincial staff use almost 3,000 of RIM's BlackBerryes to conduct their day-to-day business. It's not clear who briefing documents every week.

"We're looking at ... what the efficacy is to move to that kind of an application. Right now, we use a tremendous amount of paper."

More cases of syphilis in HRM

► Two-year-old syphilis outbreak going strong: Capital Health ► No female cases reported so far this year

@METRONEWS.CA

Syphilis is once again on the rise in HRM.

Ten years ago there wasn't a single case in the municipality, but 18 cases appeared in 2009 and Capital Health officials declared an outbreak.

It went down to 12 cases last year but now in the first six months of 2011 there have been 16 cases in HRM.

"In the first six months we've had more than we did last year," said Caryll Tawse, manager of the Protecting Health Unit.

Syphilis is a sexually transmitted bacterial in-

How it spreads

- Contracting the illness Most common ways to get infected with syphilis are giving or getting anal sex, oral sex or vaginal sex.
- Two years An infected person can spread the disease without knowing it for up to two years.
- Damaging If untreated, syphilis can damage the heart, brain and eyes.
- Cure available There is a test for syphilis and antibiotics can cure it.

fection and symptoms can show up 10 to 90 days after the infection. First symptoms include painless sores or ulcers.

All of the cases in the HRM outbreak have been in male patients.

Some of those men are homosexual, some patients had sex with bisexual men and some had sex with women, Tawse said.

"But we don't have any cases in women yet," she said.

Tawse doesn't know why there have been so many cases lately but she said they're trying to figure it out.

"The same thing is happening right across Canada as well," she said, adding there are spikes particularly in New Brunswick and Alberta.

Rainstorm victims to get more assistance

People who sustained uninsurable property damage during a December rainstorm will be eligible for more financial assistance.

The provincial government announced a $3-million disaster relief program Thursday for people affected by a storm that pummelled the province from Dec. 20-22.

Residents, small businesses, municipalities and non-profit organizations may qualify, and the government says commercial and non-profit wharfs are also now eligible.

Pirates getting bolder: Watchdog

► World sea attacks up 36 per cent in first half of 2011

Sea piracy worldwide surged to 266 attacks in the first half this year, up 36 per cent from a year ago, as Somali pirates became bolder and raided more vessels, a global maritime watchdog said Thursday.

Sixty-one per cent, or 163 of the attacks globally, were carried out by Somali pirates largely in the Arabian Sea frequented by crude oil tankers, the International Maritime Bureau's piracy reporting centre in Kuala Lumpur said in a statement. This was up from 100 attacks by Somali pirates in the same period last year.

"In the last six months, Somali pirates attacked more vessels than ever before and they're taking higher risks," said the maritime bureau's director Pottengal Mukundan.

For the first time, pirates in June fired on ships in rough seas in the Indian Ocean during the monsoon season, he said. In the past, they stayed away from attacking in difficult conditions.

Numbers game

► As of the end of June, Somali pirates were holding 20 vessels and 420 crew members, and demanding ransoms of millions of dollars for their release, the bureau said.

► They fired at 76 vessels, killing seven people and injuring 39. At the same time, 62 piracy attempts were reported to have been thwarted in the first half of the year.

However, the bureau said Somali pirates hijacked only 21 ships, down from 27 in the first half last year, thanks to increased ship vigilance and international navies' action in disrupting pirate groups off East Africa.

"It is vital that this naval presence be sustained or increased," it said.

Pentagon cites largest-ever loss of defence data in cyberattack

The Pentagon on Thursday revealed that in the spring it suffered one of its largest losses ever of sensitive data in a cyberattack by a foreign government.

It is a dramatic example of why the military is pursuing a new strategy emphasizing deeper defences of its computer networks, collaboration with private industry and new steps to stop "malicious insiders."

William Lynn, the deputy secretary of defence, said in a speech outlining the strategy that 24,000 files containing Pentagon data were stolen from a defence industry computer network in a single intrusion in March. He offered no details about what was taken but said the Pentagon believes the attacker was a foreign government. He didn't say which nation.

"We have a pretty good idea" who did it, Lynn said in an interview.

One of the Pentagon's fears is that eventually a terrorist group will acquire the ability to not only penetrate U.S. computer networks to steal data but to attack them in ways that damage U.S. defences or even cause deaths. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Presidential approval

► Earlier this year, President Barack Obama signed executive orders that lay out how far military commanders around the globe can go in using cyberattacks and other computer-based operations against enemies and as part of routine espionage. The orders detail when the military must seek presidential approval for a specific cyberattack on an enemy, defence officials and cybersecurity experts told the AP.

DISSIDENT SPEAKS OUT AI WEIWEI: MY ART WILL NEVER CHANGE

One of China's leading dissidents, artist Ai Weiwei, has accepted a teaching post at a top German university. But he fears he won't be allowed to leave China.

Ai, 54, was released from jail in China in June after sentencing in April for "suspected economic crimes." He is now under house arrest. How long is your new job contract?

Those wielding power and influence are more likely to lead a "stressful" life, according to new research on baboons.

Researchers at Princeton University discovered that alpha males among the wild yellow baboons of Kenya's Amboseli Basin have higher levels of glucocorticoid, a stress hormone, as well as testosterone.

"We found that alpha male baboons exhibit much higher stress hormone levels than beta (second-ranking) males, indicating that being at the very top of a social hierarchy may be more costly than previously thought," lead author Laurence Gesquiere told Metro. The study is based on the examination of fecal samples from 125 adult baboons over nine years.

The baboons' high stress levels are most likely due to the energy they are forced to exert just to maintain their social position, Gesquiere added, with alpha males being more prone to fighting and protecting their mate, as opposed to beta males.

Guergis violated ethics code, says watchdog

The federal ethics watchdog has found former Ontario MP Helena Guergis broke conflict-of-interest rules, acting in a way that would further the financial interests of her husband Rahim Jaffer.

Conflict of Interest and Ethics Commissioner Mary

Dawson says Guergis contravened the MPs' code when she wrote a letter in 2009 to municipal politicians in her riding.

Guergis lost her re-election bid in Simcoe-Grey in the May 2 federal election.

Guergis, a Conservative MP at the time, asked her town council to consider a pitch by businessman Jim Wright on a waste-management project.

Problem was, her husband had been dealing with Wright.

"I determined that Mr. Jaffer was building a business relationship with Mr.

Wright during the period when Ms. Guergis prepared and sent the letter to Simcoe County officials," Dawson says in her report.

Dawson finds that Guergis violated a section of the MPs' code that deals with furthering the private interests of a family member, and another that says MPs cannot use their position to influence a decision that might benefit family.

Dawson says she experienced long delays in getting documents she requested from Guergis.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Her own saga

► Rahim Jaffer and Helena Guergis had a baby boy late last year, their first child.

► Guergis was kicked out of the Conservative caucus in April of last year because of unspecified "serious allegations." The RCMP later cleared her of any wrongdoing.

► Afghan President Hamid Karzai, centre, attends the burial of his half-brother Ahmed Wali Karzai in Karz, Afghanistan, on Wednesday.

Suicide bomber kills four at memorial for Karzai's half-brother

A suicide attacker with a bomb hidden inside his turban killed four people, including himself, and wounded 13 others Thursday at a memorial reception for Afghan President Hamid Karzai's murdered half-brother, Ahmed Wali Karzai.

A second separate blast in this embattled southern city killed one other person and injured two others.

A spokesman for the provincial governor, Zalmay Ayubi, said there were no federal cabinet members among the casualties.

The country's defence, public works and interior ministers were all in attendance at the memorial service, which was intended to give members of the public an opportunity to express their condolences to the family of Ahmed Wali Karzai.

The president, who attended his half brother's funeral Wednesday, apparently returned to Kabul almost immediately afterward aboard a Canadian C-130J transport plane.

Maj. Gen. Mohammad Naim Momeen, of the National Directorate of Security, said the bomber, a teenaged boy, was searched before entering, but the explosive was hidden in his turban.

"To search the turban is an insult," Momeen said. "The insurgents are using our traditions and customs against us."

India 'vulnerable' to terror attacks: Minister

► Wednesday's bombings marks worst terror attack in India since 2008 siege, which killed 166 people over 3 days ► No group claims responsibility

The triple bombing that killed 17 in the heart of India's financial capital sparked anger Thursday over the government's inability to prevent terror strikes despite overhauling security forces after the 2008 Mumbai siege.

Indian officials say they have made extraordinary security reforms since 10 Pakistani terrorists rampaged across the city nearly three years ago, but following Wednesday's attack they warned they may never be able to guarantee a terror-free nation in a region plagued by extremism.

"We live in the most troubled neighbourhood in the world," said Indian Home Minister Palaniappan Chidambaram, pointing to nearby Pakistan and Afghanistan. "Every part of India is vulnerable."

No terror group claimed responsibility — and investigators had no immediate suspects — in the bombings that shook three separate neighbourhoods within minutes during Wednesday's busy evening rush.

Chidambaram said the government had no intelligence warning.

"Whoever has perpetrated this attack has worked in a very, very clandestine manner," he said.

A former top intelligence official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the investigation, said the attack had the Church of the Flying Spaghetti devotee permitted to sport kitchen couture in driver's licence photo

Austrian atheist Niko Alm has won the right to wear a pasta strainer as religious headgear on his driver's licence after a three-year struggle against the authorities, Austrian media reported this week.

Niko is a member of the five-year-old "religion" called the Church of the Flying Spaghetti, the devotees of which call themselves pastafarians.

The purpose of the church is to make an ironic, but serious point. "Pastafarianism is nowhere near as absurd as the creationism they teach in schools," Niko says.

Alm applied for the licence after finding out that headgear is allowed in passport photos only for religious reasons, arguing it was a requirement of his faith.

But a police spokesman said the licence was made because Alm's face was fully visible in the photograph.

"The photo was not approved on religious grounds. The only criterion for photos in driving licence applications is that the whole face must be visible," said Manfred Reinthaler, a police spokesman in Vienna to BBC News.

After submitting to a medical examination to establish that he was "psychologically fit" to drive, the driver's licence was issued and ready to be collected in October 2009, according to the Austrian police.

Video by Dugard's captors released

► Footage highlights mistakes made in detecting sexual predators ► NASA technicians were able to recover video from damaged tapes found in trash

Prosecutors have released videos recorded by the Northern California couple who abducted Jaycee Dugard and held her captive for nearly two decades, including footage of one of dozens of home searches by a parole officer that never found the kidnapped girl.

The videos recorded by Dugard's abductors, Phillip and Nancy Garrido, also provide chilling details about the two and their outings to stealthily shoot footage of young girls.

Three video clips were among several pieces of evidence released Tuesday by El Dorado County prosecutors "to highlight the gravity and severity of the mistakes made," and to improve the supervision and detection of sexual predators.

The video of a parole officer's visit shows yet again how the state botched chances to find Dugard as she was kept hidden for 18 years in the backyard of the couple's home in Antioch, North Carolina.

Throughout the years, parole officers had paid dozens of visits to the home to check on Phillip Garrido and give him drug tests, but none of the officials reported any irregularities.

The video, first aired Sunday by ABC News, was taken by Nancy Garrido between 2000 and 2007.

Cyber predator gets two years

After preying on 285 young girls and getting them to take off their clothes in front of their computer, a convicted cyber-predator received his sentence today: two years in prison.

Philippe Truchon, who used Facebook and chat sites to convince adolescent girls to take off their clothes, was handed that penalty at the Montreal courthouse. The sentence was far more lenient than the five years Crown prosecutors has asked for.

Judge Isabelle Rheault called Truchon a manipulator and a liar — but her ruling took into account a pre-sentencing report that said therapy might help him. THE CANADIAN PRESS

No one gored in bull run

Hundreds of people tested their bravery and speed by dashing ahead of six fighting bulls in a fast and clean final running of the bulls at this year's San Fermín festival in Pamplona, northern Spain.

Spanish Red Cross spokesman Jose Aldaba said three people were hospitalized for injuries sustained in falls during the race but there were no gorings.

The 850-metre dash from a pen to the city's bull ring lasted 2 minutes, 20 seconds.

The bulls and their six guiding steer remained in a pack and produced few scares among runners.

The 8 a.m. runs are the main feature of the nine-day festival made famous by Ernest Hemingway's 1926 novel The Sun Also Rises.

Bullfighters take the beast by the horns

► These two bullfighters don't wear helmets ► Among their occupational hazards: broken hands and arms from contact with the bull's head, broken feet and toes from being stepped on by hooves the size of pie plates

Don't call them rodeo clowns or say they're crazy.

Scott Byrne and cousin Jesse Byrne are bullfighters at the Calgary Stampede, and not the Spanish kind that wear sequins and swing a cape at a bull.

When a bull rider gets thrown from a snorting, leaping bull that weighs over a ton, their work begins. They distract the animal and draw the beast's attention away from the cowboy so the vulnerable human has time to get away from those swinging horns.

"I get the question quite often, 'Are you crazy?'" says Scott. "We're not crazy. We're just guys that chose a profession that's a little on the edge."

"Crazy to me is someone jumping in a race car and going 200 miles per hour around a race track 500 times."

They're routinely and mistakenly called "rodeo clowns." There is a rodeo clown on the arena infield who entertains the crowd during down time. Bullfighters in the past have worn makeup and baggy pants, which has contributed to their misidentification.

"Now we wear jerseys and no makeup. We're trying to define it now," Scott explains. "A lot of people will ask what you do and you say you're a bullfighter and they just don't get it. You just say 'clown' and they get it and then you explain we have nothing to do with being funny."

Recognition

► Pat on the back. The bullfighters get a nod or pat on the back from a cowboy after they've helped him get out of trouble.

► Voting for the best. The ultimate validation is when

"How many times have I been hit with a horn? Man, I don't know. A lot.... There isn't a day that goes by when you haven't come in contact with a bull."

SCOTT BYRNE, BULLFIGHTER

"It's our job to protect cowboys and make sure they can go ride safely the next day."

Added Jesse: "There's nothing wrong with being the Top 15 riders in Canada vote for the bullfighters they want at the Canadian Finals Rodeo each year.

► Career. Bullfighter Scott Byrne has worked at the CFR nine times in his career while cousin Jesse Byrne has been there three times.

called a clown, but I don't think there's anything funny about what we're doing."

The Byrnes and David Sandiland work as a three-man team at the Stampede to divert the bull once the rider hits the infield turf.

Thankfully, bulls don't seem to have a long attention span. Quick movements combined with a holler, clap or whistle can be enough to cause the animal to lose interest in the cowboy.

If the cowboy lands awkwardly and can't quickly get away and the bull decides to exact revenge, then the bullfighter tries to get between the pursuer and the pursued.

"Essentially, we're just getting their attention so whatever works, but there has to be a system to it with the three of us working in the arena together," Jesse explains. "It's all basically angles and timing."

Argentina banning prostitution ads

- Press freedom groups call it another censorship step
- Government hopes it will stop violence, trafficking

Argentina's government is banning prostitution ads in newspapers and other mass media as of Friday, saying it is combatting violence against women.

The ban decreed by President Cristina Fernandez drew strong praise from women's groups and the U.S. ambassador, who has made reducing sex trafficking a key goal of her tenure in Argentina.

But some of the president's opponents fear it may be used to punish opposition media this election year by removing a source of revenue.

Press freedom advocates described it as another step down a slippery slope for Latin American governments intent on dictating media content.

'Scorched earth' the battle cry

► Canadian says Gadhafi telling fighters to destroy as they retreat ► Troops' morale sagging, he says

Libyan strongman Moammar Gadhafi is telling his forces to destroy facilities as they retreat, says the Canadian general commanding NATO's mission.

The apparent scorched-earth policy emerged as a 40-country group, which includes Canada, prepared to meet Friday in Turkey to plot strategy amid a stalemate between pro- and anti-Gadhafi forces.

Lt.-Gen. Charles Bouchard says Gadhafi's troops aren't necessarily following his orders.

"This is a leader that will not hesitate to kill his own population to achieve his personal goals," said Bouchard.

"Let's be clear: just because Gadhafi has given a direction, it does not mean that direction is being undertaken by his own troops."

Bouchard noted that Gadhafi's troops are abandoning their posts regularly.

Bouchard said Gadhafi maintains a tight grip on the capital, Tripoli. His security forces continue to keep the population down, and the NATO mission is trying to protect them.

Astral says it has plan

► Deals with movie studios will help counter Netflix, CEO notes

Specialty TV company Astral Media Inc. has long-term deals in place with most U.S. movie studios, giving it exclusive content, chief executive Ian Greenberg said Thursday.

Netflix is competing for licensing rights with TV networks and pay TV services for content. It had 23.6 million subscribers in the U.S. and Canada at the end of March, double the number from two years ago.

Greenberg said when Astral buys programming rights it also includes digital rights to show the content online, on demand and soon on Apple’s iPad tablet.

Astral also repeated its message that it wants the federal broadcast regulator to examine the operations of Netflix and similar providers. “It’s just not a level playing field,” he said, adding Canadian broadcast-

New hope for U.S. debt-ceiling deal?

► Senate leaders discuss fallback plan as crisis talks continue ► Same day Wall Street warns of catastrophe

The top Democrat and Republican in the U.S. Senate are constructing a legislative detour for President Barack Obama, a path around the bitter partisan divide over raising the American debt limit and avoiding a U.S. default on its spiralling debt.

Sen. Harry Reid, the Democratic majority leader, and Sen. Mitch McConnell, the top Republican, are at work on a legislative manoeuvre that would give Obama the power to raise the debt limit unilaterally.

That would sidestep the seemingly intractable impasse in White House talks that have failed now in five sessions to find an agreement with Republicans in the House of Representatives who are demanding dramatic spending cuts but are refusing Obama's insistence that tax loopholes also be closed to raise federal income. Obama's Treasury Department has said Aug. 2 is the deadline for raising the debt limit to forestall an unprecedented American default on obligations at home and abroad.

The Reid-McConnell plan would leave the sharply polarized Congress to legislate whatever spending cuts it could muster.

Obama will hold a news conference Friday to address the status of negotiations, his second of the week on a subject that has consumed Washington as the deadline approaches.

The United States hit its current $14.3-trillion debt ceiling in May and has been able to juggle the books through the end of July to stay current on its debt payments and obligations to domestic programs. Come Aug. 2, however, various administration officials have suggested members of the U.S. military might go without pay as would Americans dependent on monthly payments from Social Security, the federal pension system for retired people. Washington likewise could find itself unable to pay outstanding interest and principle on Treasury bonds, widely held by Americans, international investors and countries around the globe.

► U.S. President Barack Obama meets with Republican and Democratic leaders regarding the debt ceiling in the Cabinet Room of the White House on Wednesday.

Word that Democrat Reid and Republican McConnell were at work on a compromise fallback plan came as Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke and JPMorgan Chase & Co. CEO Jamie Dimon admonished bickering lawmakers that failure to avoid an unprecedented default could have a devastating effect on an already-anemic economy.

Testifying before a Senate panel, Bernanke said a default would deal a "self-inflicted wound" to the nation's economy, driving up interest rates and slowing growth.

Dimon, speaking to reporters in New York, said default could prove catastrophic. "Why take that chance? I wouldn't take that chance," he said, answering his own rhetorical question. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHAT ONCE WAS RIGHT STUFF NOW SO WRONG

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 The flipside: The world in recent years has been riddled with political unrest, ecological catastrophes and trends of increasing inhumanity, and there are still millions without the most basic nourishment and shelter. Consequently, the new Harry Potter movie already has $32 million in advance ticket sales, but to put things into perspective... it's in 3-D.

2 Cotton-eyed Joes: It's Calgary Stampede time again, and everyone's flocking to Southern Alberta for some rodeo and heart-clogging deep-fried culinary concoctions. Take that, America. You're not the only ones with crazy cowboys and country music.

3 Goliath falls ... on his wallet: One of my favourite '80s comedies is Trading Places. Specifically, when Eddy Murphy and Dan Aykroyd bankrupt their ruthless employers, The Dukes. Recognition of this Karmic retribution sends the Dukes into a meltdown, turning on each other and everyone who once feared and revered them, as one collapses into cardiac arrest, while the other, frothing at the mouth, commences a stroke, yelling, "How could they do this to us? We're ruined!" Anyone else thinking of Rupert Murdoch right now?

4 Need a P?: Lindsay Lohan stood proud last week as the results of her drug tests finally came back negative. Yay! Tests also revealed that she has the healthy testicles of a 12-year-old Mexican boy.

5 Berry picking: I am forbidden from commenting due to my own personal history with Halle, but I will say this: What kind of world do we live in when a writer can't enjoy a peaceful dinner in a tree outside a celebrity's window with binoculars and a camcorder, without her getting all creeped out? Geez. Get over yourself, lady.

6 Canada's got imagination: Ever notice that none of the judges on America's Got Talent are actually American? I mean, if they "got talent," how come they don't "got judges"? In any case, whenever the U.S. has a hit, Canada likes to have its own, less profitable version, hence Citytv's presentation of Canada's Got Talent. CGT will hold auditions this fall for illusionists, acrobats, ventriloquists, rejects from Canadian Idol and So You Think You Can Dance, or anyone who enjoys repeated public disgrace.

7 NKOTBSB: Acronym for the tasteless combination of two exceptionally ripened retro-boy-bands peddling their respective brands of nostalgic mediocrity to recently divorced mothers reliving a time when their waistlines were favourably offset by the disproportionate dimensions of their hair and shoulders. (New Kids on the Block/Backstreet Boys — now on tour.)

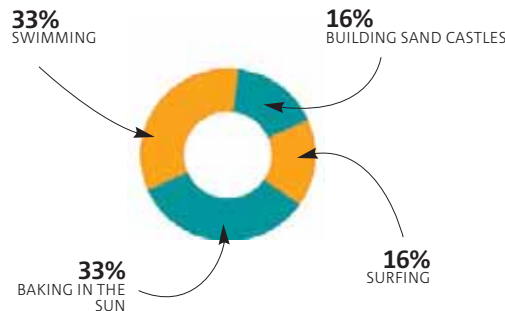

8 Sudan-ly I see: After decades of unrest, South Sudan finally achieved independence on July 9. The new government must now rise to the challenge of providing necessities for its citizens. Immediate concerns include clean water, roads, schools, currency, Starbucks and a Wal-Mart. Vaya con dios, fellow citizens.

GAGGED. Even one of on-line video's biggest stars isn't immune to copyright claims.

Lady Gaga's YouTube account was suspended Thursday. The notice read that the suspension was due to "multiple or severe violations of YouTube's copyright policy."

The Google Inc.-owned YouTube declined to comment. It's YouTube policy to remove accounts after three copyright violations, though they can be restored after being corrected.

Reports have suggested that the infringing video was a recently uploaded clip of Gaga's performance on Fuji TV.

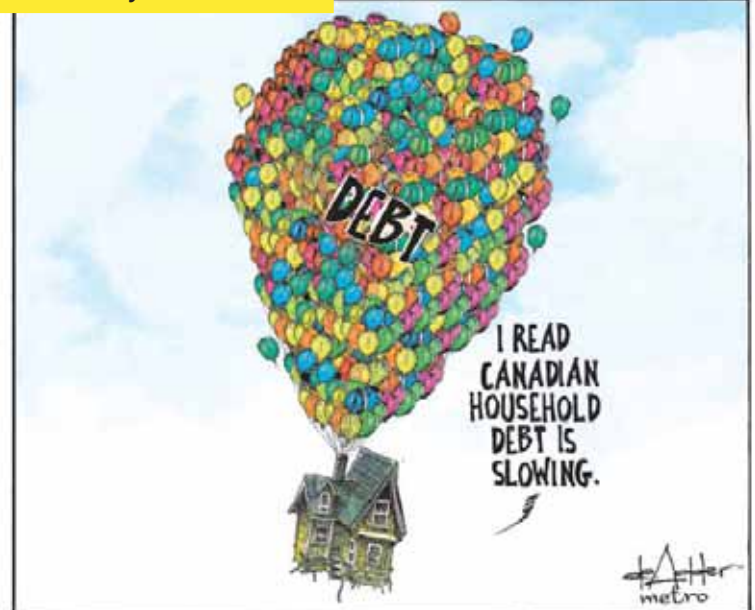

The account, "ladygagaofficial," is one of two for Gaga. The removed channel is run by Gaga's camp, while she also has an unaffected Vevo account.

The Vevo account, which has more than 1.6 billion views, generally debuts her music videos. Co-owned by Universal Music Group and Sony Entertainment, Vevo is a music-video platform that also distributes videos on YouTube.

The suspension is expected to be temporary.

Replace the gym with 20 litres of wine

Scientists have discovered that resveratrol, a natural substance found in grapes and wine can reverse the negative effects of zero gravity in rats.

Why should you care if you are not an astronaut?

"We feel the resveratrol would be a good way to prevent the effects of physical inactivity for people who cannot undergo regular activity," Dr. Stéphane Blanc said.

For the experiment, two groups of rats were suspended by their tails to create the effect of zero gravity. One group was given daily 400-milligram-per-kilogram supplements of resveratrol, the others were given nothing.

The scientists initially tested the rats to see whether the resveratrol was able to prevent loss of muscle mass. It was. They then looked at its effect on muscle metabolism. It was positive. After further tests the team found the same dosage of resveratrol had positive effects on bone density and insulin resistance, a cause of diabetes.

According to Blanc, the average person would have to drink 20 litres of wine for the equivalent of one resveratrol supplement given to the rats.

Best Potter movie yet

► Richard Crouse and Phil Brown agree the franchise finale is completely satisfying ► Creepy villains Ralph Fiennes, Alan Rickman steal the show

Richard Crouse: Mark, the decision to break the final Potter book into two movies was criticized as a money grab, just a cheap way to get a few extra dollars out of Potterheads before the franchise ends. But I have to tell you I think they made the right move. The movie is completely satisfying, with a well told story and great action scenes. What did you think?

Mark Breslin: Yes, Richard, you're right. The movie is completely satisfying. But I think it's at the expense of the movie that preceded it, which I found inert and talky; the worst of the franchise. But this one felt like a thrilling send-off to characters we've grown to love, with some great action set pieces thrown in for good measure.

RC: This is as close to an all-out action movie as there is in the Potter series. Harry's Horcrux hunt (say that three times fast!) takes up much of the movie leading up to some major revelations, an existential train station scene and a heartwarming conclusion, but along the way it's an exciting ride. A small quibble though. What did you think of the 3D? It didn't add much to the experience for me.

MB: The best thing I can say about the 3D is that it was unobtrusive, letting us pay attention to the complex plotting. But I think the movie, unlike most in the series, doesn't work as a standalone film. It would make little sense if you haven't seen the last few installments. And fans of Ralph Fiennes' Voldemort won't be disappointed — he's as creepy a villain as you can imagine, with lots of screen time. By the way, I did try saying Harry's Horcrux Hunt and was kicked out of the restaurant I was in.

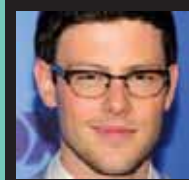

RC: I thought Alan Rickman stole the show. He has the creepiest vocal tics since Boris Karloff and really brought something to a character that could have been one note. And you're right, it isn't a standalone, but it doesn't have to be. Harry Potter has stood at the centre of popular culture for the last decade. The franchise is the thing, not just the one picture.

MB: In which case, I ask you, Richard, which were your favourites? Mine were the first three, when the world of Hogwarts was at its most innocent, and this one, with its brisk pace and brutal efficiency.

RC: I have to tell you, I think the new one is the best of the bunch!

Winnie the Pooh*Genre: FamilyDirector: Stephen Anderson, Don Hall

Pooh Bear's latest big-screen adventure, simply titled Winnie the Pooh, goes back to the source for its inspiration, weaving together six chapters of Milne's stories to form one satisfying whole.

Directors Stephen Anderson and Don Hall have wisely updated the story — the pace is snappier than the classic 1960's cartoons — but kept the elements that have made Pooh an indispensable character for the under-10 crowd. The gentle humour is in place, along with the beautiful water-colour backgrounds and the voices so connected to the series (they're done by different people now, but are true to the style established by Walt Disney himself).

thumb sucker director Mike Mills exorcizes some demons from his father's death with this sweetly melancholic autobiographical comedy. Ewan McGregor plays Mills and Christopher Plummer plays his father who came out of the closet at 75 before dying of cancer shortly thereafter. There's also a painfully realistic love story between the broken character played by McGregor and an equally damaged actress played by Melanie Laurent. It's a movie about life, loss and finding love.

Pattinson fans go online for stalking tips

THE CANADIAN PRESS/PETER KRAMER

► Actor Robert Pattinson takes pictures with fans at the premiere of Water for Elephants on April 17 in New York.

► Groupies are in a frenzy for any tidbit on the star's whereabouts

For many of Robert Pattinson's most ardent Canadian fans, the summer of 2011 is better known as hunting season.

With the British heart-throb based in Toronto for his shoot on the David Cronenberg thriller Cosmopolis, devotees have been in a frenzy trying to suss out what they can about his comings and goings.

The Twilight star, who typically draws hundreds of squealing fans to red carpet appearances and fan conventions, arrived in town several weeks ago to star in the big screen adaptation of the Don DeLillo novel.

"I just want to see him ... a glimpse of him would send me off to heaven," a fan who identifies herself as Myra Munir wrote in an online plea for information at the website On Location Vacations.

"So if you guys know anything please let me know ... it honestly would be a dream come true."

Those looking for tips on where to stalk stars usually go online, where it's become increasingly easy to find details on celebrity work schedules, party hangouts and even accommodations, says security expert Adrienne Fekete-Romanick.

"There's so many blogs and interactive websites and social networks that give you so much information, very little is kept private these days," says Fekete-Romanick, director and owner of Star Quality Enterprises, which handled security for Toronto film shoots.

Most filming for Cosmopolis — which co-stars Paul Giamatti, Jay Baruchel, Juliette Binoche and Samantha Morton — has taken place undercover at an east-end studio. But several public shoots offered fans the prospect of a brush with fame.

Blogger Christine Bord, who runs On Location Vacations, says most leaks come from people who spot a public notice in their neighbourhood alerting them to an upcoming film shoot that could disrupt traffic or local businesses. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gyllenhaal on scene of shooting

Jake Gyllenhaal and Michael Pena got a front row seat to Los Angeles gang violence.

The actors, who were riding along with police on patrol in South Los Angeles, were on the scene of a gang shooting late Wednesday. The actors are researching police work for their roles in the upcoming movie End of Watch.

McGee says the actors were on patrol with 77th Street Station officers.

End of Watch is a drama that focuses on the partnership of two police officers.

► Actors Justin Timberlake, Mila Kunis say their new film Friends with Benefits is more of a buddy comedy

MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis want people talking about their new movie, Friends with Benefits. Just don't call it a romantic comedy.

"We always thought of it more as comedy than a romantic comedy," says Kunis. "If anything, it was a two-hander — a buddy comedy with a little romance in it. Because you care about the characters and you watch the characters fall in love, but it's not your stereotypical romantic comedy."

Timberlake is on the same page about the film, about two love-weary friends who embark on a sexual relationship without all that messy romance stuff. "I don't know that we've ever treated it like a romantic comedy or a slacker comedy. To me, funny is funny and not funny is not funny," he says. "And so we just wanted to find the funny in all these situations, and that's how we treated this."

Friends with Benefits marks a major milestone for both Timberlake and Kunis, as it's the first time either has top-lined a film, though they've both received positive reviews for supporting turns in the Social Network and Bad Teacher in Timberlake's case, and Black Swan and Forgetting Sarah Marshall in Kunis'.

Still, taking the lead has to come with new presures, but Timberlake insists they're quickly pushed aside. "We deal with those demons before we sign contracts. After you commit to the movie, you have to let all that stuff go," he says, though he admits having Kunis along for the ride was a huge help.

"That was a little bit of a comfort, knowing that you were going to be sharing the bill and the comedy and the whole movie with a counterpart," he adds. "There's never a moment in this movie where it's just one of us out there by ourselves."

If the premise of Friends with Benefits sounds more than a little familiar, that's because it's not the first movie this year to tackle the idea of pals hooking up. Natalie Portman and Ashton Kutcher gave it a go in January with No Strings Attached.

► Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis star in Friends with Benefits.

Kunis, though, doesn't think audiences will worry about a sense of déjà vu. "I think that movies are movies, and there's only so many original stories to be told in the world, and that's the truth," she says. "There's what, like, seven different stories."

Lights about to dim on Friday Nights

► With clear eyes and full hearts, the cast reflects on Friday Night Lights

On Friday, the small-town Texas drama Friday Night Lights will end its five-season run as one of the finest, most humanistic shows on television.

Though never a ratings success, the show gradually found a fervent following.

Shot on location around Austin, Texas, and in a collaborative and improvisational style, FNL will be particularly remembered for its naturalism.

Instead of elaborate sets and rigid blocking, scenes were typically captured by three cameras following the action of the many characters of Dillon, a football-obsessed town anchored by the moral centres of coach Eric Taylor (Kyle Chandler) and guidance counsellor Tami Taylor (Connie Britton).

On a show largely about community, the making of FNL, too, was a kind of community.

Though much of the cast came and went throughout the show's run as characters graduated from high school and moved on, FNL was its own family.

The final season already aired on Global, coming nearly a year after FNL wrapped.

To mark the end, the close-knit cast of Friday Night Lights talk about their experience with the show. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► It's all about the football: FNL cast members Matt Lauria, left, as Luke Cafferty, Grey Damon as Hastings Ruckle and Jurnee Smollett as Jess Merriweather.

Looking back at five seasons of FNL

Connie Britton (Tami Taylor)

"It's been almost a year, and I still miss it. I'm still sort of getting used to life without Friday Night Lights. It was such great experience and such a unique one. I feel like my life was forever changed by it."

Michael B. Jordan (Vince Howard)

"One of the first people I met down there was Brad Leland (Buddy Garrity). I walked into a Mexican restaurant and I went over and introduced myself to him. I said, 'You might not know who I am, but I'm playing x, y, z on the show.'"

He said, 'Michael. Michael, listen to me, Michael. This is something that you'll never, ever, ever forget. You're part of something special. And you just wait until you go to set on Monday and you'll find out for yourself, because I can't tell it with any justice.' That was the first welcoming I got and he didn't speak one false word. Everything he said was true."

Taylor Kitsch (Tim Riggins)

"I based a lot of Riggins' look off of Gary Oldman in State of Grace. His long hair, his grease. On the pilot and once we got picked up, I'm sitting in the makeup and hair (department) and I'm like, 'Nope, more. Nope, more.' They were like, 'Really? Are you serious?' And I was like, 'Yes. This cat, this is who he is.' It became this whole over-exposed deal about his hair."

► Actress-singer Zoëy Deschanel tries to satisfy kids, parents with her new music, new acting role on Fox

When Zoëy Deschanel was a little girl, she listened to children's music by Harry Nilsson, Carole King and others — and those songs remain on her playlist today.

So when the actress and She & Him singer was tapped to write the closing song for the new Winnie the Pooh movie, she sought to set that same kind of standard for her tune.

The 31-year-old is known for her quirky performances in films including (500) Days of Summer and Elf, as well as her musical career with M. Ward as part of the retro, folk-pop duo of She & Him.

Though considered left of the mainstream, she has a chance to connect with the masses this fall on The New Girl, a Fox TV comedy.

Deschanel talked with The Associated Press about all things Pooh, her new series and her next role.

Were you a big Winnie the Pooh fan?

I was. I feel like if you asked me when I first heard of Winnie the Pooh, I don't remember, because it's so much a part of my childhood. ... I feel like it would be weird if I didn't love Winnie the Pooh.

Is writing for movies different from what you do with She & Him because of all the visual elements?

As far as lyrically, you want to hit the point and hit the themes without being too specific, because if you're too specific, for me, No. 1, it's very unsubtle. You have to walk a line lyrically ... I want it to feel like the movie without it being about the movie. You take the themes into account, but you're not telling them what happens in the movie. They just saw the movie, they don't need to be told what happened.

Are you excited about jumping into television?

I am. ... When I got the script, I thought, well, you know, it's so rare, just even in the world of movies, to get a really great role, and to get a great role that I get to like, play for a long time, is so exciting, and I feel like, I just don't get these kind of roles.

Has your sister Emily (who stars in Fox's Bones) given you any advice about the world of television?

Yeah, she's been really great and really generous about offering me advice, and we're on the same network, so she knows everybody involved and everything, so she's been a really great person to talk to in the whole experience.

CAN U2 EVER TOP THEMSELVES?

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

As I stood watching U2 play the 105th of 111 shows on their 360 Tour, all I kept thinking was “Now what?”

No tour has sold more tickets or grossed this much money. Every single show throughout the seven legs has sold out — this despite a million tickets having been thrown into disarray by Bono’s back injury last year. By the time it comes to an end in Moncton, on the 30th, the total box office take will be somewhere around $700 million.

So I ask again: Now what?

Everyone in the industry that I’ve heard from — including the mysterious Arthur Foegel of Live Nation, the Canadian mastermind behind this tour and mega-tours by Madonna, the Police, David Bowie and other superstars — acknowledges that there isn’t another act on the planet capable of duplicating what U2 has done. Even the U2 organization itself can’t imagine anything bigger or more successful.

Why? After 35 years, U2 remains a working rock ‘n’ roll band that still can release albums and have them go platinum around the world. Their catalogue is so deep that it spans generations of fans. Everyone goes to the shows because they love different parts of that catalogue. Tours are global events that attract heads of state. (When I saw the show in Moscow last summer, Mikhail Gorbachev was in the stands behind me.)

► After the 360 Tour - what’s next for U2?

There’s just not another act with U2’s musical firepower or financial backing.

There isn’t another band capable of raising the start-up capital for staging a tour as big as 360. U2 and their people had to spend upwards of $150 million before a single ticket was sold. The three Claw stages alone cost $35 million each. Their construction is so sophisticated that bidders from four continents want to buy them for conversion into permanent concert pavilions.

In the current musical environment, I can’t see anyone ever outdoing this U2 tour. The Rolling Stones? They might come close, but they’d have to play more shows — and at their ages, that would be tough.

I may just have to fly to Moncton to see that final show. Not because I want to see U2 again but because once the lights go down at the end of the set, I fear that we will never, ever see the likes of a rock ‘n’ roll show on this scale ever again.

Blake loves NYC, Odd Future

BACK AGAIN. James Blake loves New York. No, really.

Beyond the cliché, the singer-songwriter has a thing for the Big Apple.

“It’s very quickly becoming my favourite place.”

It makes sense, then, that he’s performing there again after playing

NYC just two months ago.

And he’s excited to check out some of the other acts — one of which he has already seen and really likes.

“There are some people I’m really excited to see. I was fascinated by Odd Future at SXSW. To me, it looked like that festival kind of broke them. They did really well to show people what they can do. I saw them twice. The second time it took me a while to get in.”

Kerr names kid after a dead ex

► Actress gets permission from Bloom to name the baby

Miranda Kerr named her and Orlando Bloom's son in part after a deceased ex-boyfriend, she tells Australia's Daily Telegraph.

One of baby Flynn's middle names, Christopher, was chosen in honour of Kerr's first boyfriend, Christopher Middlebrook, who died in a car accident as a teenager.

"Chris and I had been dating for two years," she says. "After he died, I wrote him a letter that said I hoped to name my first child after him in some way. I told Orlando and he was the one who said he'd be happy to do that. Orlando's a good guy."

The baby's full name is Flynn Christopher Blanchard Copeland Bloom.

Master the grill

Master the grill with tips and trade secrets.

1. Preheat grill so leftover food or sauce burns and brushes off easily.

2. Trim excess fat from meat before grilling to help reduce flare-ups.

3. Always brush barbecue sauce on food towards the end of cooking to prevent sugars from burning.

4. Never pierce meat with a fork to flip it on the grill. This releases juices making it less moist.

5. Avoid opening the lid of the grill needlessly allowing heat to escape.

Though I don't work magic in the kitchen as much as I used to, I'm still a cookbook fan. Culinary text and images never fail to inspire me to nag my wife to recreate whatever catches my eye.

One of my favourite recent releases is Jeff Potter's Cooking For Geeks (O'Reilly, $43.99): A macho tome that reads more like an issue of Popular Science than an artsy Gordon Ramsay creation.

Potter takes the MythBusters route by explaining the ins and out of everything from baking bread to making things melt in weird ways in what ends up as a fascinating read. But experimenting with Potter may have to wait until after barbecue season: The few months when I can hold up my end of meal creation.

One of my favourite grilling grapes is zinfandel and the 2008 Gnarly Head Old Vine Zin ($16.95 - $19.99) from California is a mocha-meets-deep berry wonder that will rock everything from cut of beef to a burger and fries.

Dalton's canoe sprint renewal

► After considering retirement from a successful career, canoeist finds race success over a shorter distance ► The former Olympian is gearing up for 2012 qualifiers

MATTHEW WUEST
HALIFAX@METRONEWS.CA

Just a few years after flirting with retirement, Richard Dalton's paddling career is experiencing quite a revival.

The Halifax native has quietly established himself as Canada's top 200-metre canoeist this summer and is putting himself in a strong position to make his second trip to the Summer Olympics next year in London.

The 200 is a new discipline for Dalton, a former 500 and 1,000-metre racer who decided to specialize in the shorter distance rather than retire when it was added to the Olympic lineup two years ago.

"It's certainly extended my career quite a bit further than I thought it would go," the 31-year-old said.

Dalton went to the 2004 Olympics in Athens, racing the C-2 1,000 with Mike Scarola as part of a tandem that won multiple international medals. After Scarola retired, Dalton focused on racing C-1 in the 500 and 1,000-metre distances.

But when he didn't qualify for the 2008 Olympics in Beijing, the thought of retirement entered his mind.

"It didn't look great for me to become No. 1 in Canada in the 1,000 or 500," Dalton said.

The announcement in 2009 that the 200 would replace the 500 at the next Olympics was just what the He's ramping up for Olympic qualification in 2012 and having fun doing it.

Calvillo's greatness becoming unquestionable

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH

LONDON@METRONEWS.CA

The debate over Anthony Calvillo's place in CFL history has started, even though the sensational quarterback is a long way from finished.

Detractors argue that although A.C.'s career numbers make him appear to be the best QB in CFL history, the Als star is just a capable player who profits from playing on great teams.

Plenty of CFL followers will tell you Calvillo's not as talented as Doug Flutie, Ron Lancaster, Jeff Garcia, Warren Moon, etc.

The 39-year-old Calvillo last week tied Damon Allen's all-time CFL record of 394 touchdown passes when he threw for five majors in Montreal's win over Saskatchewan.

While Calvillo might not be your first choice if you were starting an expansion team, he's more than just a decent QB who was lucky to land with a great franchise.

Not only does Calvillo own three Grey Cup rings with the Als, he's also on course to establishing a new record for career passing yards before season's end. And don't be surprised if he caps that off with a fourth Grey Cup ring.

Dunigan's head still in the game: Not long ago, a player suffering a mild concussion was said to have "had his bell rung" and would often return to the game with little consideration for future effects.

Recent advances in science and a more humane approach to player health have made brain injury research a priority.

CFL Hall of Famer Matt Dunigan sat down with the CFL on TSN's Brian Williams last week to reveal his own personal fight with head injuries and post-concussion syndrome and how concussions have affected his life.

Despite retiring 15 years ago, Dunigan is still affected by the dozen concussions he suffered during his stellar career.

Dunigan will donate his brain to concussion research in hopes that "they'll be able to advance the science and understanding of concussions and brain injuries to help others."

Toothless Lions:

B.C. Lions head coach/general manager Wally Buono said it best.

"It's very ugly," he said. "It's sickening."

Buono was referring to the video of Lions DB Stanley Franks' gruesome knee injury, but he could have just as easily been talking about the Leo's 0-2 start to the CFL season.

Franks was taken off the field on a cart, and the initial diagnosis is a severe dislocation of the knee. Now Buono has another headache. In addition to his team's slow start, Buono now has to make adjustments in his secondary when the 0-2 Lions face Ricky Ray and the 2-0 Edmonton Eskimos Saturday at Commonwealth Stadium.

Amateur leads pack at British Open

► Lewis first amateur to lead round at a major since 1976 ► 'He could be my grandson,' says playing partner Watson

Tom Lewis shares a name with one of the British Open's greatest champions.

The kid sure lived up to it Thursday.

Lewis, a 20-year-old amateur, shot a 5-under 65 to share the lead after the opening round of golf's oldest major — a day that was even more special because he played alongside the man he was named after: five-time British Open champion Tom Watson.

"I was more nervous not to embarrass myself in front of him," Lewis said.

No worries there. Lewis pulled off some Watson-like shots at Royal St. George's, making four straight birdies coming down the stretch before a par-saving tap-in at the 18th left him tied with Thomas Bjorn.

▶ England's Tom Lewis shoots out of the bunker on the 6th hole on Thursday.

"I just had to smile inside watching him play," said the 61-year-old Watson, who needed seven more strokes than his namesake to get around the course.

"I didn't play particularly well myself, but I certainly was impressed by the way he played."

Lewis's late-afternoon charge was definitely impressive, but it didn't totally overshadow an early-morning round by Bjorn, who was playing at this course on the English seaside for the first time since his meltdown in the 2003 Open.

Amateur elite

Tom Lewis posted the lowest round ever for an amateur at the British Open.

▶ His score of 65 beats the 66s posted by Frank Stranahan in 1950, Tiger Woods' in 1996 and Justin Rose in 1998.

That year he threw away a two-stroke lead on the final three holes — he needed three swings just to escape the bunker at No. 16 — and allowed Ben Curtis to snatch away the claret jug with one of the sport's most shocking upsets.

Two very different players.

Two hugely compelling stories atop the leaderboard.

"I'm 40 years old," Bjorn said, "and there might just be a little bit more in me."

U.S. Open champion Rory McIlroy got off to a sluggish start but was still in the mix, putting up a 71 that left him six strokes back.

Considering he played in the morning, when conditions were tougher, McIlroy had no complaints about a round that began with two bogeys on the first three holes.

"It was a day where you just needed to grind out a score," McIlroy said. "Anywhere around even par was a good start."

In the afternoon, the gusting breezes off the Strait of Dover died down and the rain held off, resulting in about twice as many rounds in the 60s as the morning starters put up. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
